Papolo Pond. Aug. 22, 1910.

Fish... - Roach (= Golden Shiner) about 8 in. long ($\frac{1}{2}$ lb.?) Pickerel, Large-mouth Bass, Red spotted Sunfish, Catfish
Yellow Perch

Cranberry Pond. Aug. 26, 1910.

Black-nosed Dace in spring creeks close to the pond.

Red-spotted Sunfish, Yellow Perch, Pickerel, Catfish

A farmer living beside the pond said there were no Black Bass in it, but that Lake Trout had recently been introduced.

I caught one musk turtle on a hook at bottom

The farmer had shot 12 Arctomys this year; had seen other this year;
had seen many Zapus when mowing near the pond.

Flying Squirrel. - One seen reclining about the trees and making long flights, on July 14, 1910. Once it crossed the highway.

July 21, 1910. - Shot with aux. into Flying Squirrel's nest. I thought I saw the nest material move, so fired a second shot into the nest.
Then a Flying Squirrel came out, ran down the tree and along the ground into a swamp. The next day I shot into the same nest & then climbed up, but found it empty.
The nest was 20 feet from the ground, half-way up a small red oak. The nest material was large twigs of red oak with this year's leaves attached, heavily lined

[Robins commenced singing at 3:39 on July 5 and 6, 1910. These are the earliest.]

with inner bark of the chestnut. No other material.
Nest 18 in. in diameter
Some of the component branches were surprisingly large.
